Class History

As Grammar Graders, we thought we would never reach high school; now as Seniors, it seems almost as if it were only yesterday that we—mere children—were beginning our long journey, part of which I now review.

It was the fall of '46 that we were full of excitement. That was our first year in high school and was an entirely new life. That year the high school gave a play, "Here Comes Charlie." Several of us played a part. One thing we really looked forward to was the spring dance which took the place of the Junior-Senior Banquet, since there were no Seniors that year. Earl Corriher, who was a pest at first but later became a friend to all, came from Dukeville to join our class.

Waiting to join our class in our Sophomore year were Carl Wood, Frank Moore, and Peggy Connor. We really had fun throughout this year with parties, picnics, and weiner roasts coming quite frequently. Miss Miller, our home room teacher, guided and helped us through our troubles. When we planned something, she was there to help us so we wouldn't get discouraged and back out. Once we gave the play "Cinderella," especially for the little ones. We also gave several good chapel programs during the year.

The next year we journeyed to the Junior Class. Some others joined our class—Margie Gregory came from Boyden to be with us while Carl Torbush, Walter Thompson, and Jack Hooks came back after being in the service. Miss Cowan helped us with our Junior play, "Percy Cuts Loose," which we all remember was lots of fun. We sold T-shirts and other things in order to give the Seniors a banquet. It was the big thing we Juniors were looking forward to—the girls in their evening dresses and the boys in their new suits. Last year, most of us were playing basketball. We all had lots of fun going to the games.

Then all of a sudden, the time came when—guess what—we were dignified Seniors. Mildred Winders and Albert Loflin left their old friends to join us. We also gained another veteran, Fred Shipwash, who has added much to our class. We sold Christmas cards and candy in order to have some money in the treasury. The boys sponsored a very successful Halloween party. We have had several class parties and high school parties for entertainment. How our luck ran to get Mrs. Gobble for our home room teacher, we don't know, but she has helped us to do the things necessary for a Senior to graduate. We didn't get Mrs. Sides as a home room teacher but she has helped us in making our annual, which we keep as a memory book.

We now have this small group of Seniors—some of whom will journey on to college and others will enter the world only to begin the long march up the ladder of success. We have waited a long time for this hour to come; and now, as the time draws near when we must say goodbye, we would like to call time out to thank each and every one who has helped us to reach this important goal.

Prophecy

What will you be doing in ten years from today? Would you like to find out? Well, just ask me. Of course my predictions aren't always right but they are never wrong. Just the other day I took a peek into the future of the Senior Class of East Spencer High School and, to show how good I am—here is what I saw.

Here is a very bright and clean looking service station which is owned and operated by Carl Wood. Now just think, Carl started out as handy man of the place and now he is owner. That just goes to show what book learning can do for a fellow.

Let's move on up the street and have a look in one of the department stores. Who should we find as Chief Executive of the firm but Robert Adams. Ho! Ho! What is this? Mildred Winders is working in the office as cashier. Leave it to a woman to count a man's money.

Now a little trip out of town and who should we find keeping house for Bob? None other than Margie Gregory. What do you say we move on and leave these married people to themselves?

What is this coming into view? Why it is a skating rink with the lights out front spelling out the name "Corriher." I knew Earl would make good as a skate boy.

I wonder why that load of wild animals just passed with the name Moore on the trucks? Now I see it. They belong to the great game hunter, Frank Moore. I knew Frank was a hunter but I never thought he would go this far.

Well, look who is still working on cars. It is Walter Thompson; only this time he is owner of the garage instead of beating around with his old Ford.

The future seems to be a bit unsettled for Jack Hooks. Let's say Captain in the Navy. How is that?

For some unknown reason a beautiful mansion just passed before my eyes. I wonder who could own it? Now I see. It was built and is owned by the great carpenter George Barringer. Ole George has turned out to be quite a nail driver after all.

Brother, we are really going places on this trip. A schoolhouse just came into view and who should we find teaching but Ruby Kluttz. Funny thing about Ruby, I always had the feeling that she would marry some rich old banker but I guess Jim had other ideas.

Just look at those stars! For a minute I thought someone had slapped me with a brick but it was only General Bob McDowell walking by. Bob always had his eyes on the stars (movie stars, that is).

This can't be a Cadillac with smiling Carl Torbush at the wheel. I guess it is. After getting hitched to Freida, Carl became foreman of Spencer Shops.

Here is a lovely house in the country and this time it is Peggy Connor who has married the wealthy man.

Oh, no! This can't be Yankee Stadium with Gene Snider at the bat. I guess it is. There goes another homer and Gene breaks the world record for the number of homers in one season.

Who is that seated behind the desk in the office of the North Carolina Finishing Company? Why it's Albert Loflin. Finally made president, did he?

This is a whiz of a basketball game going on in Madison Square Garden. Just one more goal and All-Star Jim Goodman will be leading the nation with his performance for the season. The reason Jim is such an outstanding athlete is that he lives a very clean life with smoking and drinking completely abandoned.

Who is this young chap chasing the ladies down the street? Why it's me! Darn the luck. Now I have dropped my crystal ball and I will never be able to tell whether I caught the ladies or not. Now my days of crystal gazing are over and it is up to you to join hands with the world and strive to make your future, and the future of the world more successful and one well worth looking forward to. With this thought in mind, I now leave you on your own with the world.

Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of E.S.H.S., while still in our right mind and feeling ourselves to be full possessors of the wisdom of the ages after four years of study within these beloved walls, do hereby make and declare our last will and testament this twenty-third day of May, nineteen hundred and fifty. This writing is our last will and testament, hereby revoking and making void all other testimonial writings heretofore made.

I, Fred Shipwash, leave my ability to study to Richard Peacock, providing he will make good use of it.

I, Carl Wood, leave the school paper to anyone who wants to take the responsibility of getting it out on time.

I, Walter Thompson, will my little black Ford to James Meacham, hoping he will get to school on time.

I, Bob McDowell, will my love for argumentation to Jim Earnhardt; may it not lead him into as much difficulty as it sometimes has led me.

I, Jim Goodman, will my basketball position to Raymond, providing he makes excessive use of it.

I, George Barringer, will my quiet disposition to Betty Sprinkle, hoping it will help her.

I, Earl Corriher, leave my ability to sleep in class to anyone who can sleep, without snoring.

I, Jack Hooks, leave my wisecracks and jokes to Bill Loflin.

I, Frank Moore, leave my skill and athletic ability to Jim Sides, hoping he is not as unlucky as I.

I, Robert Adams, leave my romantic ideas to Corky Myrick.

I, Albert Loflin, leave my smile and friendly ways to Freida Wilson.

I, Ruby Kluttz, will my athletic ability to Evelyn Blalock so she may be the most athletic girl in the Senior year.

I, Mildred Winders, leave my good personality and friendly ways to Laura Sue Honeycutt.

I, Margie Gregory, leave my regards to those we leave behind us.

I, Peggy Connor, leave my shyness to Joan Carver.

We, Carl Torbush and Gene Snider, willingly will the will writing to anyone who will willingly write the will.
